„NEW METROPOLITAN PERSPECTIVES“ International Symposium – 4th edition

The 4th edition of the International Symposium “New Metropolitan Perspectives” faces the challenge of local development’s innovation dynamics and its complexity putting humankind at the centre of the scientific debate, towards reclaiming that “man is the measure of all things”.

The symposium is jointly promoted by the LaborEst and the CLUDsLab Laboratories of the PAU Department, Università Mediterranea of Reggio Calabria, Italy, in partnership with a qualified international network of academic institutions and scientific societies.

It is part of the TREnD (Transition with Resilience for Evolutionary Economic Development) Research Project funded by the European Union’s Horizon 2020 Research and Innovation Programme under the Marie Skłodowska Curie Actions – RISE 2018.

Territories and cities, material and immaterial heritage, resilience and transformations in the perspective of the 17 Sustainable Development UN Goals,
MAY 25-26

Rhegion UN 2020-2030 intends to highlight the importance of cultural change that must be made in order to pursue the philosophy of sustainable development specified by the UN in 2015, participating in the construction of „cultured technology“ mentioned since 1991 by Romano del Nord.

That is to build a new civitas, with roots in history and sustainable for the future, where the Comunitas can live with good quality of life and in harmony with nature, as well highlighted in the Encyclical Letter Laudato Sii of the Holy Father Francis on the Care of Common House focused on integrated ecology.

The aspects linked to anthropological questions will not be secondary, but examples of best local, national and international practices will also be relevant.

June 1-5

The Workshop is an experimentation of recovery and redevelopment based on the UN 2020 - 2030 objectives of a territory with a strong natural value and rich in historical evidences such as the Metropolitan Area of Reggio Calabria.

THIS SYMPOSIUM IS PART OF THE TREND PROJECT THAT HAS RECEIVED FUNDING FROM THE EUROPEAN UNION'S HORIZON 2020 RESEARCH AND INNOVATION PROGRAMME UNDER THE MARIE SKŁODOWSKA-CURIE GRANT AGREEMENT NO 823952.

DESCRIPTION

AIMS OF THE INTERNATIONAL SYMPOSIUM 2020

The event is organized with the aim to receive contributions from national and international scientific community on sustainability transitions towards transforming regional and urban sociotechnical systems within new policy agendas of sustainability and cohesion, according to the directions of Horizon Europe and Agenda2030.

This edition faces the challenge of local development's innovation dynamics and its complexity, putting humankind at the center of the scientific debate, towards reclaiming that "man is the measure of all things", as stated by Protagoras.

The underlying question is: How does the new relationship between man and technology affect human settlement systems and land use?

The speed of technological progress in recent years has increased significantly: within a few years, machine learning has developed into deep learning. Recent publications by the global consulting Roland Berger have revealed the incredible progress made by robots, already used to a great extent in various sectors, with a substantial reduction of the working time, important increases in productivity, with benefits for the entire society.

Besides, in everyday life, a new way of conceiving time and connections has emerged, dependent on information and communication technology, seen immediately and urgently.

Technological innovation and the development of ICT have changed the rules of living physical and human spaces rewriting the parameters of work, social behavior, and territorial/urban governance, with a substantial change of the location patterns.

In the field of social science is there the right attention to these issues? What approach has there been over the past few years and what direction should we take in the future?

Concurrently, the nature of human cohabitation that had characterized urban agglomerations has changed over time, following a mangled social environment and the dismemberment of the territory. Distinctiveness that we are witnessing today is the depopulation and abandonment of rural areas, connected with the metropolitan „nervous network“ expansion, as underlined by M. Cacciari, devouring the surrounding territory. The metrics of the man-nature dialectic are hardly recognizable in cities and territories, and the gap between rich and poor keep growing.

Nevertheless, the awareness of complexity involves a rethinking of meaning-making structures for responses to complex societal issues with a correspondingly radical rethinking of "measure matters". At European level, the regional strategy of smart specialization is at the center of academics, policy practitioners' debate in the post-2020 Cohesion policy. Among new statements on a more flexible approach in allocating investment, on a more integrated approach to reach the goal of development, the recall of a more tailored approach to regional development is emphasized. It seems that a shift occurs from a place-based approach to locally-based, which asks a recognizable involvement of the city and citizens. Reaching the change needs transition approach, namely sustainability transitions towards transforming regional and urban sociotechnical systems.

CALL FOR SESSIONS

The TREND project proposes a new perspective in the design process of tailored development policies via the innovation boost. Stemming from the current debates on regional diversification together with the emerging role of the city in pursuing local innovation ecosystem, the aim is to explore new development policy configuration in which the evolutionary framework prompts the response of different territories to continuous shocks. The relevance lies in bridging Resilience, as an ongoing process of change rather than a recovery to a (pre-existing or new) stable equilibrium state. In this perspective, the innovative aspect stems from conceiving Transition Management (TM) as a keen strategical approach to translate the combination (Resilience, Diversification, Evolutionary Theory) into policy design and implementation.

CALL FOR SESSIONS

Sessions may be theoretical, methodological, thematic, interdisciplinary and have broadly conceived or more narrowly focused subjects. Sessions that embrace cross-cultural, transnational and Euro Mediterranean based issues are particularly welcome. Topics exploring the urban resilience, regional economic evolution, territorial cohesion and innovation ecosystems are encouraged.

Session proposals must be submitted by 11:59 p.m. CST, November 28, 2019. Please send the proposal form to nmp@unirc.it and indicate the corresponding author if there is more than one organizer. ## RHÉGHION UNITED NATIONS 2020-2030

Conference Rhegion United Nations 2020-2030. Territories and cities, material and immaterial heritage, resilience and transformations in the perspective of the 17 Sustainable Development UN Goals.

Keywords RHEGION UN 2020-2030: Water and Green, Energy, Security, Mobility, Community.

Each keywords will be declined in an interdisciplinary way with the territory and the city that, in fact, are experimental laboratories: the local conditions, from being constraints, must become suggestions for action both for the transformation of the existing and in the construction of places, as Settis remembered in 2014 in his Lectio Magistralis The ethics of the architect and the restoration of the landscape for the conferral of the honorary degree in Architecture.

The intention is to involve the different skills, dealing with both the ancient and the modern, just as the 2015 UN Charter requires addressing the 17 objectives set. So trying to build more synergies, from the Greek word συνεργός, to try to reconstruct and move into a holistic perspective of transformations. On the one hand it will be about the reversal in the definition of the relationship between man and nature, considered an interconnected system of networks, dynamic, of which it is necessary to overcome interpretation of the vision „... by parts and therefore build a radical, consequential, new legal structure comparable to what he made Copernicus in the interpretation of the position of the Earth in the system of celestial bodies...“, as Fritjof Capra and Ugo Mattei in 2017 in their book Ecology of Law. Science, politics, common goods. On the other hand, we will have as interlocutors from various parts of the world where an alternative route has been underway for years and is giving great results in the sense of social and environmental sustainability.

The initiative also intends to have an exemplary, methodological pedagogical function regarding both the formation of cum-cives, that is, of ecological citizens and the possibility of sustainable development. Thus various activities will be focussed on the involvement of the school environment before, during and after Rhegion. Sustainability issues will become central for a few days in the city. This will also strengthen the relationship between the university and the city. There will be the involvement of the many economic actors operating in the Reggio and Calabrese territory inspired by the sustainability: from those in the agricultural field to those in renewable energy, underlining the importance of the „closure of cycles“, of the „km0“, of the management of biomass such as wood, of sustainable mobility. All the places of the Event, both in the University and in the city, will be a sort of exhibition space for products, solutions and even projects inspired by the objectives of the UN 2020 - 2030 Charter. Each aspect addressed will have further specifications in the New Metropolitan Perspectives Symposium and experimentation in the Rhegion UN 2020 -2030 Workshop.

INTERNATIONAL DESIGN WORKSHOP/COMPETITION

Rhégion United Nations 2020-2030

TERRITORIES AND CITIES, MATERIAL AND IMMATERIAL HERITAGE, RESILIENCE AND TRANSFORMATIONS

IN THE PERSPECTIVE OF THE 17 SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT UN GOALS

1-5 June 2020 REGGIO CALABRIA

Starting from the 17 objectives of the UN Charter of 2015, the International Design Workshop involves the various disciplines actors in the formation of both ancient and modern space. Synergy is the key word, from the Greek συνεργός: that is cooperation, integration, for solutions in a holistic space perspective. Building a sustainable polis, with roots in history and sustainable for the future, where the Comunitas live with good quality of life, in accordance with nature, as required in the Encyclical Laudato Be on the Care of the Common House focused on integrated ecology. It is a tentative to construct/implement the necessary cultural and operational change to pursue sustainable development through cultured technology, of which it speaks of the North since 1991. The Workshop is an opportunity to test design practice and theories of recovery and redevelopment in the light of the UN 2020 - 2030 objectives in the context of the Reggio Calabria Metropolitan Area, rich in naturalistic features and ancient testimonies, with significant tourism potential. And rethinking the identity of these places characterized by a widespread absence of modernity but immersed in the most vast global mutations.

THIS SYMPOSIUM IS PART OF THE TREND PROJECT THAT HAS RECEIVED FUNDING FROM THE EUROPEAN UNION'S HORIZON 2020 RESEARCH AND INNOVATION PROGRAMME UNDER THE MARIE SKŁODOWSKA-CURIE GRANT AGREEMENT NO 823952.
